PART ONE: CHARACTERS

1.0—CREATING A CHARACTER CHECKLIST:

Step 1: roll ability scores. Roll 4d6, total the highest 3 of the dice. Record that number. Repeat this until you have 6 numbers, each ranging from 3 to 18. Considering the class you want to play, arrange these 6 numbers as you will among Strength, Intelligence, Wisdom, Dexterity, Constitution, and Charisma.

Step 2: Choose a Species from among the Mortals. Adjust the ability scores by the modifications given in the species description. Note any other special advantages of the species, the species size/HD and base movement.

Step 3: Choose a class (Fighter, Magic-User, Cleric, Thief or Multi-class combination of 2 of them). Not all classes are available to all species, so check the species description.

Step 4: Record the number of hit points you have, this is the maximum number you could roll on 1 die of the type determined by your species' size. So small species begin with 4 hp, medium 6hp, large 8hp. Fighter class characters add 1 hit point. And a high CON score might add 1-3 more.

Step 5: Choose an Alignment: the choices are Lawful (on the side of Civilization), Chaotic (opposing Civilization) and Neutral (not worried about the triumph of Law or Chaos). Chaotics are generally speaking just bad people who value their own whim over the suffering of others.

Step 6: choose a god: Clerics must choose a particular god's cult into which he will be initiated. Other characters may or may not do so. Generally, you must choose a god with the same alignment as your own. Becoming initiated, gains you a +1 on one particular ability score, noted in the god's description, but makes you liable to commands by his priests.

Step 7: Choose Adventuring Skills. At first level humans choose 2 skills, all other species choose 1 (although some species receive an additional particular one as part of their starting package).

Step 8: Spells : Magic-Users record the spell they have in their spell book (typically 4-7 spells, see the class description for complete details).

Step 9: record starting cash: Find your WIS ability score, multiply that number by 10, and that's the number of gold pieces you have to spend on starting equipment. Buy armor, weapons, and other gear you might need.

Step 10: find your movement rate: check your base movement rate (from species description), encumbrance (STR score) and the items you are carrying to arrive at your current movement speed.

Step 11: Record Languages Known:

1.1 STEP 1: ABILITY SCORES

STRENGTH (STR)

Direct Score, all characters: each point of strength is 1 item that can be carried 15+ all characters: +1 damage with melee and hurled weapons.

Fighters: +1 to hit with melee weapons if 15+; Additional +1 damage if Str 17-18.

Typical Checks: open a stuck door, pick up heavy object, climb a tree/cliff

INTELLIGENCE: (INT)

Direct Score, all characters: each point of INT over 10 means 1 bonus language

15+: all characters: one bonus Adventurer Skill at level 1

Magic-Users: roll INT or less to learn a discovered spell, maximum spells per level equals INT score, one bonus level 1 spell at first level if INT is 15+

Typical Checks: decipher a coded message, strange dialect.

WISDOM (WIS)

Direct Score: all characters: starting cash equals Wisdom x10 gold pieces

15+: all characters: +1 to Saving Throw

Clerics: if 15+ gains a bonus level 1 spell, can cast beginning at first level.

Typical Check: keep your cool in strange situation,

DEXTERITY (DEX)

Direct Score: all characters, number of feet added to movement if Run Move taken.

15+: all characters: +1 to hit with missile weapons

Thieves: +1 AC if 15+, +1 additional +1 AC if 17-18.

Typical Checks: leap onto a horse, catch an object thrown to you

CONSTITUTION (CON)

Direct Score: all characters, score equals the number of hit points below 0 that a character can lose before dying.

15+: all characters, +1 hp/level

17+: all characters, +2 hp/level

18+ all characters +3 hp/level

Typical Checks: survive critical wound without Stat loss, hold breath

CHARISMA (CHA)

Direct Score, all characters: 1 bonus henchman per point over 10.

15+: all characters: +1 to reaction rolls

Typical Checks: rally fleeing troops, convince informant to give information.

ABILITY CHECKS: when the rules call for an Ability Check or the player tries to do something outside of the rules, most of the time this means roll 1d20, and if the player rolls equal to or less than the Ability Score in question, he has succeeded. If the Judge decides that the task is especially difficult, then the player might need to roll his Ability Score or less on 1d100. For example, if the rules say CON check d20, roll your CON or less on 1d20.

1.2 STEP 2: THE MORTAL SPECIES

Mortals or Persons are the human-like intelligent creatures that are on roughly same physical scale as humans and are capable of living in communities and making civilizations in the fantasy worlds. Mortals can have character classes and can be used to make player characters and can be encountered as adversaries and friends.

Clerics are the intermediaries between the gods and mortals. They perform many public rituals and services, pray for guidance and assistance for their communities, and act in the world to carry out the will of their divine masters.

Armor and Weapons: clerics can wear all armor types and use shields. Unlike Magic-Users, Clerics can cast their spells while wearing armor. They may only use weapons without an edge or point including: fist, baton, club, staff, light hammer, mace, war-hammer, flail, maul and sling. If they attempt to use a weapon not on this list, they suffer -4 on their "To Hit" roll, and Lawful Clerics lose their spell casting powers and turn undead power for the day.

Saving Throws; Clerics get no bonuses to any particular type of Saving Throw, but if you notice the table above, you will see that Cleric saves are 2 points better than all of the other classes for all types of save. Clerics, being in tune with the gods are more likely to gain their protection.

Combat Maneuvers: clerics may use the Charge, Disarm, Parry, and Fighting Withdraw combat maneuvers.

Magic Item Creation: a cleric can create various magic items. To make potions (or Holy/Unholy water), he uses the Sanctify Potions spell (level 1), to make Scrolls, he uses the Scripture spell (level 1), to make a magic staff that stores spells, he uses the Sanctify Staff spell (level 4), and to make permanent items, he uses Sanctify Magic Item spell (level 6)

Turn or Command Undead: all clerics can manifest divine power against certain supernatural threats. Lawful Clerics can turn or destroy the undead, Chaotic Clerics can turn or command the undead, and Neutral Clerics can turn Elementals and Lycanthropes

TABLE:

Level	1 hd	2 hd	3 hd	4 hd	5 hd	6 hs	7 hd	8 hd	9 hd	10 hd	11 hd	12 hd+
1	7	9	11
2	5	7	9	11

4	T	3	5	7	9	11
5	T	T	3	5	7	9	11

9	D	D	D	D	T	T	3	5	7	9	11
10	D	D	D	D	D	T	T	3	5	7	9	11
11	D	D	D	D	D	D	T	T	3	5	7	9
12	D	D	D	D	D	D	D	T	T	3	5	7
13+	D	D	D	D	D	D	D	D	T	T	3	5

Procedure: the cleric must present the divine symbol of his god and use his Attack to confront the creatures. He rolls 2d6 dice and if the total is equal or higher than the number on the chart (which cross-references the Cleric's experience level with the Hit Dice of the creature) then 2d6 individuals of the targeted type of creature must flee from the cleric for 2d6 rounds (if combat had begun) or 2d6 turns (if combat had not begun).

If the cleric fails the turning check, he cannot try again for 10-minutes. If he succeeds the check, he can try again if there are more undead to turn.

If the chart says "T" then 2d6 creatures are turned without the need to roll the dice.

If the chart says "D" then 2d6 creatures are not merely turned but immediately destroyed.

Chaotic clerics gain temporary control of undead instead of turning, a permanent control on a D result.

Spell Casting: The cleric prepares his spells ahead of time, praying to his god for the spells he thinks he will need for the coming day. He can have as many prepared as the cleric spell chart allows, plus 1 additional spell (Not per spell level, just 1) each day from the spell type of his god. As each spell is cast it is removed from his prepared number of spells until he prays the next morning. When the sun rises, all his unused spells are lost. To prepare his spells, he must spend one hour in the morning in prayer and ritual, unlike magic-users, he does not particularly need a good night's rest first.

Example: Archdeacon Ramtor is a 5th level cleric. He therefore can prepare 2 first level spells, and 2 second level spells each day. He chooses, Heal Wounded and Light/Darkness as his first level spells, and Bless and Neutralize Poison as his second level spells. During a dungeon expedition, he uses all the spells except the Neutralize Poison. When the sun rises, he loses the Neutralize Poison, but if he spends 1 hour in prayer, he can prepare another set of 4 spells (perhaps re-gaining the Neutralize Poison).

Notice that Clerics do not begin casting spells until they reach 2nd level. The only exception to this is if the Cleric has a 15 or better WIS score. In such a case, the Cleric gets one bonus First Level spell per day, which he can begin to cast at first level.

DIVINE SYMBOL

Each god served by clerics has his own symbol. A cleric must hold a portable version of that symbol in his hand to cast a spell or use the Turn power. This may mean that he needs to put aside a weapon or shield to do so. If he cheats out and uses a wooden symbol, he must roll a skill check (see Adventuring Skills) to succeed, using a silver symbol has no such check.

Holy/Unholy/Sacred:

The word Holy applies to divine manifestations or trappings of the Lawful Alignment, Unholy to the Chaotic, and Sacred to the Neutral.

Fighters are the trained soldiers and warriors of the mortal races. They can selflessly defend their communities, fight for pay, or greedily raid the homes of others, but they are trained in the arms and weaponry needed to do so.

Armor and Weapons: fighters can wear all armor types and use shields and may use all weapons.

Saving Throws; Fighters get a +2 bonus to saving throws against Breath Weapons, Energy Drain Attacks, Weapon Effects and Paralysis causing spells or effects.

Bonus Damage: at higher levels, Fighters add extra points of damage, indicated on the chart above, to hits made in combat with weapons

Fighter Rampage: When a Fighter brings an enemy to 0 hit points by a weapon attack, he may make another melee attack against any enemy in reach (if he has not moved yet he may move now and take the second attack). If he continues to bring targets down to 0 hit points with these rampage attacks, he can continue making them until he reaches the Max Rampage number on the chart above.

Combat Maneuvers: Fighters may use all the Maneuvers listed in the combat chapter. Notice that they can add their Bonus Damage number to their Parry Modification, may use a Parry against missile fire (if they are using a shield), are the only ones that can use Rampage, Dismount, Stand and Fight and Split/Hook Shield maneuvers.

Combat Modifications: unlike other classes, who only get 1, Fighters can make an Extra Attack against 2 different enemies who attempt to leave combat with them per round. Enemies on foot suffer a -2 to hit a fighter who is on horseback.

Magic-Users are people who have devoted their careers to studying and mastering secret formulae, symbols and incantations that bring forth powerful supernatural effects. Spell casting is their bread and meat and is how they solve problems and overcome obstacles.

Armor and Weapons: magic-users cannot cast any spells if they are wearing any sort of armor, so they are not trained or accustomed to its use. Even multi-classed magic-users cannot cast magic spells while wearing the armor of their other class. Magic-users are limited to use of only a few basic weapons: fist, baton, club, staff, knife, dagger, silver dagger or darts. If they attempt to use any weapon but these, they suffer -4 on their "To Hit" roll.

Saving Throws; Magic-users get a +2 bonus to saving throws against Spells and spell-like magic effects, magic devices, and magical traps.

Combat Maneuvers: magic-users may use the Charge, Parry and Fighting Withdraw combat maneuvers.

Magic Item Creation: a magic-user can make a variety of magic items. To make scrolls, he uses the Read Magic spell (level 1). To make Potions, he uses the Brew Potions spell (level 2). To make a Spell Book he uses the Prepare Spell Book spell (level 3). To make magic wands, he uses the Create Wands spell (level 4). And to make Permanent Magic Items, he uses the Create Permanent Magic Item spell (level 5).

Spell Casting:

The magic-user prepares his spells ahead of time (some call it "memorizing" them, others refer to it as "hanging them in the ether" others just as "partially pre-casting them"). He can have as many prepared as the magic-user spell chart allows. As each spell is cast it is removed from his prepared number of spells until he has time to prepare again. To prepare his spells, he must get 8 hours of rest, and then spend 1 hour studying his spell book and making the preparations.

Example: Titus Thunder is a 3rd level magic-user. He therefore can prepare 3 first level spells, and 1 second level spell. He chooses, Sleep, Sleep, and Circle of Protection as his first level spells, and Invisibility as his second level spell. During a dungeon expedition, he uses both sleep spells and the Invisibility. After a good night's rest, he can spend an hour and prepare a new set of 3 firsts and a second, or he can leave the Circle of Protection prepared and only pick 2 other firsts.

Magic-Users with an INT of 15 or higher get one bonus level 1 spell to cast each day.

Components:

Spells that are directly cast, i.e., not from a scroll, potion or device, need various symbolic odds and ends to achieve. If a magic-user has a Component Bag, he is assumed to have all the components he needs to cast a spell. If he is forced to cast a spell when his bag is taken from him, he can attempt to cast anyway, by making a Skill Check (see Adventuring Skills), but if he fails, the prepared spell is spoiled and lost.

20	5	5	5	5	5	5	4	3	2

One bonus first level spell if INT 15+, beginning at first level.

Specialist Mages gain 1 bonus spell per spell level in their specialty beginning at first level.

SPECIALIST MAGE: some magic-users, when they start their careers, can decide to be Specialist Mages in one of the 13 spell realms. If so, they can prepare 1 extra spell for each spell level that they've reached (e.g., Titus Thunder, above, could prepare 4 level 1 and 2 level 2 spells at a time). However, by specializing in a Realm of Magic, the mage must first choose a spell of that Realm before any others when he gains a level.

However, specialist mages will be unable to cast spells from 2 realms outside of their specialty. Each Realm has a listed "opposite", and the caster is automatically forbidden from casting from that Realm (e.g. a Fire Specialist cannot cast Water spells). The second will be rolled randomly, go to the first level spell list, roll 1d12, look at the realm next to that number and you cannot learn spells from that realm (if you land on your specialty or its opposite, roll again). It is possible to specialize in Grip spells, but you must roll both forbidden Realms randomly. It is not possible to specialize in "magic art".

WITCHES AND NATURAL SORCERERS: some individuals are not trained magic-users, instead are natural sorcerers. These individuals do not have spell books and do not learn the Magical Arts spells, and cannot use or make scrolls. Instead they have a number of spells in their mental inventory equal to the spells a regular magic-user can prepare and can cast each one once per day. Natural sorcerers cannot be specialist mages. Other individuals can cast spells not through training like magic-users or inborn talent, but because of being granted the power by an extra-worldy being (often, but not always by a Demon). They follow the same rules as Natural Sorcerers, but are usually called Witches.

Example: Fantastic Flanders is a 4th level sorcerer. He knows 4 different first level spells and 2 2nd level spells, he can cast each one once per day. He cannot choose Read Magic, Circle of Protection, or Mind-Reading. So, at first level he chose Sleep, at second Air Shield, at third Disguise and Protection from Normal Missiles, and at 4th Shocking Grip and Ice Bolt. He can cast each one exactly once per day.

SCROLLS: magic-users and specialist mages (but not natural sorcerers or witches) can make and use spells placed on a scroll (using the Read Magic Spell). A scroll is a one-use magic item that stores a spell on it which can be read out and cast by any magic-user or specialist mage and, with a skill roll, a thief. It takes 1 week and 100gp per spell level to make a scroll, and the magic-user must have access to scroll making supplies (i.e., be in a proper town or city). A scroll spell is cast just like a regular spell but does not use up a prepared spell slot. Scroll spells are also a way to find and copy new spells into someone's spell book.

1.3.4—THIEVES

19	900,000	+1	+10	x6	d20	6
20	1,000,000	+1	+10	x6	d20	6

Thieves are those trained to use stealth, skill and mechanical aptitude to take things that don't belong to them. They mostly operate alone or in small gangs in the villages and cities of the world.

Armor and Weapons: Thieves may only wear leather armor, hides, lamellar or gambeson and may not use shields. Thieves can use any weapon but there are some weapon effects that they cannot use.

Saving Throws; Thieves get a +2 bonus on saves against Poison and all sorts of mechanical and magical traps.

Combat Maneuvers: thieves may use the Charge, Parry, Disarm and Fighting Withdraw combat maneuvers.

Backstab: if a thief attacks during a Surprise Round, or while Invisible, or against an enemy who is leaving combat by any means except Fighting Withdraw, or against a target who does not see him because he has sneaked up behind him (usually through Moving Silently from a previous hidden location) the he can make a Back-stab attack. The backstab is +4 on the to-hit roll, and the total damage that is scored is multiplied by the number on the Progression Table above. A backstab can be done with any melee weapon, and any missile weapon, but at short range only.

THIEF SKILLS:

thieves are incredibly useful on adventures, especially dungeon exploration because they are trained in a set of skills, known as Thief Skills. To use a skill, the Thief rolls the Die Number indicated on the Skill Check column of the Progression Table above, if he rolls a 3+, he is successful, if he rolls a 1-2, he fails. All thieves know all the thief skills.

CLIMB WALLS: anyone can climb a tree or rough cliff-side with a STR check, but a thief can climb virtually any surface. Skill check is used when the surface is too smooth for non-thieves even to attempt.

HEAR NOISE: when listening at a door to hear monsters on the other side, or to detect enemies creeping up, most characters need to roll 4+ on 1d4. Thieves are much better at this, making their standard skill roll.

HIDE IN SHADOWS: a thief can find a dark corner to hide, motionless until an enemy passes by or turns his back by rolling this skill, other characters have to rely on the surprise roll.

MOVE SILENTLY: a thief can sneak away or up behind someone who is looking the other way using this skill. Other characters must rely on the surprise roll. A character or group of characters (at least 60' away from allies without the skill) all of whom make their skill rolls will get a round of surprise on enemies, in addition to any surprise rolled. In a combat, characters who begin as hidden or otherwise unseen and who make a skill check can sneak up behind an enemy not looking in their direction, to get back-stab attempt.

OPEN LOCK: a thief can open up a locked door or chest with this skill. Each attempt takes 1 turn, but does not increase the chance of wandering monsters like smashing the chest in. Other characters can try acid, which makes things worse if you fail, or smashing which is noisy and destructive, see Breaking Things for details. Requires Thief Tools.

PICK POCKET: a thief can make a skill check to lift a coin purse or other item from a target. Other characters have no chance at this.

READ LANGUAGE: a thief can make 1 attempt per document or inscription in a language he doesn't know to attempt to decipher it. Other characters must hire interpreters or use magic.

READ SCROLL: a thief can make 1 attempt to cast a spell off of any magic-user (not cleric) spell scroll, if he fails his skill check, the scroll is ruined and the spell does not go off. See Scrolls for further information.

TRAP WORK: a thief can use this skill to find mechanical traps on chests and doors with one roll and remove them safely with a second roll. Unskilled characters can find a trap on a d100 roll against INT. Only trained thieves can remove such traps. Other characters must work out detailed precaution with the Judge. The skill can also be used to set mechanical traps. Requires Thief Tools.

USE WAND: a thief can activate any magic-user wand by using this skill, provided he knows the command word. Failure of the skill check means the wand did not activate and no charge is used. This skill does not allow thieves to use clerical staffs.

1.3.5—MULTI-CLASS CHARACTERS

Multi-Class Progression Table

Level	EXP
2	5000
3	10,000
4	20,000
5	40,000
6	60,000
7	80,000
8	100,000
9	200,000
10	300,000
11	400,000
12	500,000
13	600,000
14	800,000
15	1,000,000
16	1,200,000
17	1,400,000
18	1,600,000
19	1,800,000
20	2,000,000

A character, at creation, can decide to become a multi-class character, taking on a combination of any 2 classes. The experience progression, as listed above is twice as steep as a character with only 1 class, which will generally keep the multi-class character 1 level behind his single-classed fellows.

However, a multi-class character takes the better of his classes hit points, attack bonus, spell casting powers, and receives all the weapon and armor proficiencies, class powers, skills and abilities of both his classes.

There are some restrictions on using these powers, however.

- A multi-class thief cannot use Move Silently, Hide in Shadows, or Climb Walls when he is wearing chain, scale, brigandine or plate armor.
- A magic-user multi-class cannot cast magic-user spells if he is wearing any armor or carrying a shield.
- A lawful cleric multi-class cannot cast cleric spells or turn undead if he has a weapon not allowed to the cleric class on his person.

1.3.6—LACKEY—NPC CLASS

Lackey Progression Table

Level	EXP	Added Hit Points	Attack Bonus	Skill Check	Saving Throw
1	0	1 die	+0	d6	16
2	2500	1 die	+0	d6	15
3	5000	1 die	+1	d6	14
4	10,000	1 die	+1	d6	13
5	20,000	1 die	+3	d8	12
6	30,000	1 die	+3	d8	11

Lackeys are a special class for only NPC's. They represent "professional dungeon assistants", henchmen who support adventurers on their missions. Some Lackeys will appear when the players search for henchmen but also when a Non-classed NPC has gone on an adventurer session or two the Judge can promote him to Lackey. Any mortal species that can take the Thief Class can also be Lackeys. Lackeys may only advance to experience level 6.

Adventuring Skills: while most characters get Adventuring Skills at levels 1,3,5,7 and 9, Lackeys begin with 2 skills (3 if they are human) and get 1 adventuring skill every single level they advance. Also, unlike every other class, the Lackey can choose a Thief Skill as an Adventuring Skill whenever he advances.

Armor and Weapons: Lackeys may wear Leather Armor, Hides, Lamellar or Gambeson, and beginning at 4th level they may also wear chain mail or scale, they may not use shields. Lackeys use a limited array of weapons including: fist, baton, club, staff, light hammer, war pick, maul, knife, dagger, silver dagger, hatchet, hand axe, battle axe, and great axe. If Lackeys use weapons not on this list, they suffer a -4 to their "To Hit" roll.

Load: Lackey carrying capacity is rated as if he had a STR 5 points higher than his actual STR.

Swap: A lackey standing adjacent to another character can use his attack to swap what is in his hands for something in the character's hands, without costing the character his attack or move.

1.3.7—NON-CLASSED CHARACTERS

The majority of the individuals of the Mortal Species do not have a character class. Various versions of D&D have called them "Level-0" or "Normal". We will call them Non-classed Characters, abbreviated XC.

Ability Scores: there is no need to generate ability scores for XC characters. They all "seem normal" and, if it comes up, can be assumed to have "10" in all 6 ability stats (with size L mortals being rated at a STR of 16). If the XC acquires a class, then roll the scores and perhaps "he wasn't like he seemed at first" might be said.

HIT DICE: XC's will generally have a single HD based on their size. So, a kobold, gnome, halfling, goblin, etc., XC will have 1d4 hit points. A human, dwarf, elf, orc, etc., XC will have 1d6 hit points. The larger species, like Ogres and Trollsons use 1d8 HD. Some species have more than one HD even for XC. So, a Half-Ogre or Trollson XC has 2d8 hit points, a Lizardo XC has 2d6 hit points, a Bugbear XC 3d8, and an Ogre XC has 4d8 hit points.

ATTACKS: all XCs have a +0 attack bonus.

SAVING THROWS: XCs have a Saving Throw of 17+, modified by any species bonus (e.g. Dwarves get a +2 vs. Magic and Poison).

ARMOR AND WEAPONS: XCs can use whatever armor and weapons that the Judge deems appropriate. A farmer, for example, could probably wear leather and use a club, rake or axe. A caravan guard might wear chainmail, carry a composite bow and sword.

ADVENTURING SKILLS: since XCs are not adventurers, they do not have an Adventuring Skill, apart from ones that come from their species (Elves, e.g., have the Secret Door Expert skill).

CAREER SKILLS: it is not important to pre-set the skills for XCs (blacksmithing, sailing, accounting etc). Instead, if it somehow becomes important, treat the skill roll like an adventuring skill, and set a die-type. So, village blacksmith can repair the broken mace in 1 day on a roll of 3+ on 1d6. A renowned master map-maker can make a legible copy of the ancient map within the week by rolling 3+ on 1d10.

ADVANCEMENT: if an XC is recruited into the service of a player character, and continues to adventure past 1 session, he will, when the Judge decides, gain a character class. Most should become level 1 in the Lackey Class, although others might become Fighters or Thieves, if the Judge thinks it's appropriate based on their performance in the adventure. If Trollson, Lizardo or Half-Ogre XC gains a class, he will not gain additional HD until 3rd level. If a Bugbear XC gains a class, he will not gain additional HD until 4th level. If an Ogre XC gains a class, he will not gain additional HD until 5th level. Although XC's who get the fighter class will gain the Fighter +1 hp each level.

TRAINING: A fighter of 2nd level or higher can train 2 squads (20 men) of XC in 1 month of drills, then once each squad has participated in at least 2 battles, raids or dungeon expeditions, they advance to being 1st level fighters. A thief of level 3 or higher can take an XC on as an apprentice and after a month of extensive training, if the XC takes part on 2 heists or dungeon expeditions, he advances to a 1st level thief. It takes 2 years of training and mentoring by a Magic-User or Cleric of level 5+, and then 2 dangerous missions to advance an XC apprentice to a level 1 MU or Cleric.

1.4—STEP 4: HIT DICE AND HIT POINTS

Characters gain a new hit die each level up to level 10, and a fixed number of points thereafter. Fighting-men gain +1 extra hit point each level up to 10 in addition to the die. Some character with high Constitution can get bonus hit points (+1 to +3) applied each level from 1 through 10.

Player characters (only) get maximum hit points at first level. When they advance in levels, they may re-roll any "1" rolled for hit points.

What die types that characters and monsters use is determined by species normal, which in turn is determined by Size.

Tiny: 1d2: pixies, cats, weasels, owls

Small: 1d4: kobolds, goblins, halflings, gnomes, dogs

Medium: 1d6: humans, elves, dwarves, half-orcs, orcs, hobgoblins, pumas

Large: 1d8: half-ogres, ogres, bugbears, horses

Gigantic: 1d10: giants, dragons, elephants

Undead/Supernatural: 1d12: skeletons, zombies, vampires, elementals, demons

1.5—STEP 5: ALIGNMENT

Each being in the game has one of 3 alignments: Lawful, Neutral or Chaotic.

Lawful indicates that the creature is on the side of civilization, law, and opposes the expansion of Hell. The divine guardians of the Lawful alignment are the gods and their angels, living in celestial realms, cities and fortresses in the heavens above. Choosing Law means that, to you, there are principals, ideals and values more important than what you might want. It also means that the whole of civilization and the comparatively higher level of peace and safety it brings to the bulk of people are worth a great deal. Chaotic means the creature will put its own will, whim and lust for power over all other considerations and desires the destruction of civilization. The chaotics on earth are supported and encouraged by the forces of the Abyss, an infinite nightmare that belches forth demons and swallows worlds. The area of the Abyss nearest to our world are known as Hell, but Abyss and Hell can be used as interchangeable terms in most circumstances. The fact that the gods of Hell and the Demon Lords are in constant struggle with one another is one of the reasons they haven't gobbled the entire universe. Choosing Chaos means that, to you, life is a struggle whose only meaning is to grab as much as you can regardless of the cost to others.

Neutrals are those either don't understand the conflict between Law and Chaos (animals), or don't care (thieves) or believe that it will sort itself out on its own (nature spirits) or are willing to play one side against the other for profit (mercenaries) or desire that neither side ever win (Neutral Clerics) or have concerns that they deem more important than this conflict and will join whichever side will help their aims (patriots, researchers, ideologues, vengeance-seekers).

1.6—STEP 6: THE GODS AND INITIATION:

The gods are powerful immortal beings who seek to protect or lord over portions of the universe and are in some sense powered by the worship of mortals. Characters can choose to be initiated into the worship of 1 god at a time, and clerics MUST be initiated into the worship of a god. Being initiated gives two benefits: first the character gains 1 point in the Ability Score associated with the god, second he can purchase spell services and potions from the temple of his god at the lower "own temple" rate. The drawback to initiation is that each time an initiate disobeys an order from a priest of that god, he suffers a -5% drop in his current experience point total. If he disobeys a third time, he is no longer considered an initiate. Each god has a spell type associated with him; clerics get 1 bonus spell per day (not per level) from the god's spell type, starting at 2nd level.

Each campaign or even campaign area should have its own set of gods, but here is a sample:

GOD	Ability Score	Alignment	Spell Type
Lord Protector	STR	Lawful	Protection
Lady Mercy	CHA	Lawful	Healing
Lord Bounty	CON	Lawful	Blessing
Lady Knowledge	INT	Lawful	Divine Will
The Doom-speaker	WIS	Lawful	Law
Father Sky	STR	Neutral	Divine Will
Mother Earth	WIS	Neutral	Protection
Mistress Flame	DEX	Neutral	Combat
Master of Waters	CON	Neutral	Practical
The Wanderer	INT	Neutral	Neutrality
Queen of Witches	INT	Chaos	Practical
Slaughter King	CON	Chaos	Combat
King of Demons	WIS	Chaos	Divine Will
Queen of Madness	CHA	Chaos	Cursing
The Eternal Feaster	DEX	Chaos	Chaos

1.7—STEP 7: ADVENTURING SKILLS

THE MECHANISM: if you have one of the skills listed here, the key mechanism is to roll a single die, based on your level, and roll a 3 or better. In other words, Don't get a 1 or 2.

Level	Die Rolled	Level	Die Rolled
1-3	1d4	10-12	1d10
4-6	1d6	13-16	1d12
7-9	1d8	17-20	1d20

ACQUIRING THE SKILLS:

Each character (including thieves, who also get all the Thief Skills) can choose 1 Skill from the General List at First Level and then another at 3rd, 5th, 7th and 9th. After 9th he gains no more skills. Humans gain one additional General Skill at first level.

GENERAL SKILL LIST

These Skills are available to all characters to choose from:

ALCHEMY: a skill roll allows the identification of any Alchemical Product found in the dungeon. It also allows the character to identify a potion without tasting it. Making products and potions is more the province of an NPC alchemist hireling. Requires Alchemist Kit.

ALERT REACTION: a skill roll allows a character to move or raise an alarm (but not attack) during a surprise round when he is the one surprised.

AVERT YOUR EYES: a skill roll allows a character a second saving throw against being turned to stone by a basilisk, cockatrice or medusa.

BERSERK RAGE: a character with this skill may take 1 combat round to prepare and then on a successful skill check will go into a mad battle-rage, gaining +2 on his "to-hit" rolls, does not need to make Morale Checks, and gets +6 to saves vs Fear spells or effects. It takes a skill roll to set aside the rage (once per round, but it does not cost an attack or move), or else the character will keep hacking enemies or dead bodies in sight and start making a lot of screaming noise (wandering monster on 5-6 on 1d6 each round). Badgermon get this skill for free.

BIBLIOPHILE: a skill roll allows the detection of book worms in "wormy" books. A skill roll allows the character to appraise the fair resale value of non-magic books found on adventure. Unskilled mages and clerics can attempt these tasks, but it is a 1d100 INT check. The herb vermifuge is the only treatment for book worms.

BUSTER: uses the skill roll to break open a chest, door or other container in a single attempt (see Breaking Things rules), it's quicker and more likely to succeed having this skill, but just as likely to attract wandering monsters for the one attempt. Ogres and Half-Ogres get this skill for free.

CROSSBOW SNIPER: a character with this skill who makes his check can pop out from around a corner or crenelation, shoot a crossbow and pop back into an unseen position without an enemy getting a chance to shoot at him. Normally a character must move out of a safe position into partial cover, shoot, and then his turn ends.

DETECT AND TREAT POISON: a skill roll to detect the presence and type of poison on a trap, blade, dish of food etc. It will even detect whether a potion is indeed poison. The skill also allows limited poison treatment, if a poisoned person is treated by a skill roll while the poison is still active or within 3 rounds of infliction, allow a second saving throw. Unskilled characters can attempt to Detect Poison with a WIS check on 1d100, but cannot attempt the treatment. Treatment requires Healer's Bag.

FIRST AID: roll skill check to patch up wounded after a battle, heals 1d4. 1 attempt per person per battle and it must be attempted within 1 hour of the damage being taken. It takes 1 turn to attempt, so at most 6 healing attempts can be made by any character after any battle. Unskilled characters can make an attempt by rolling WIS on less on a d100. First Aid can also be used to stop the 1 hp/round blood loss of a critically injured character (but not to restore one to consciousness). Requires a Healer's Bag.

HEAR NOISE: this is the same as the Thief Skill, but is available to all adventurers.

HERBALISM: roll skill check to identify herbs or herbal products found on adventure or to find 1d6 doses of a random herb after a day searching. Requires an Herbalist's Bag.

HIDE IN THE FOREST: similar to Hide in Shadows, but limited only to forests, jungles or heavy brush.

HOLY BARRIER: a character with this skill can use a vial of Holy Water to trace a line 10' long on the ground. With a successful skill check, the barrier will prevent undead or demons from crossing the line. The barrier lasts for 1d4 combat rounds. Uses 1 vial of Holy Water per use.

MIGHTY BREATH: use skill roll to avoid poison gas attacks and to hold one's breath for longer than normal if submerged in water (generally 2 extra escape attempts over normal).

MONSTER HUNTER: a character, after searching 1d4+1 days in a terrain where a particular monster is wont to live, can find a monster lair of that type on a successful skill roll. Other characters just have to stumble around waiting for a random encounter roll.

MOVE SILENTLY: same as the thief skill, allows silent movement when not wearing chain, scale, brigandine or plate armor. Bugbears get this skill for free.

MYSTIC RESERVE: if a magic-user with this skill has cast all of his prepared spells, he may make a skill check in time of need. If he succeeds in the skill check, he may cast any of the first level spells in his spell book. If he fails the skill check, he takes 1 point of damage and is stunned for the next round, unable to move or attack.

QUICK DRAW: skill roll to change weapons (for example, put away bow, get out sword and shield) without using your attack or move or without dropping an item onto the ground. It would also allow the retrieval of a scroll, holy symbol, potion, flask, or magic item from a backpack or sack without using a move or attack.

RALLY THE TROOPS: skill roll to restore morale (without a new morale roll) of any soldiery under your authority within 60' and to make them immune to morale checks for the next 1d4 rounds.

RECRUITMENT: use a skill roll to replace a general search for henchmen or hirelings with a specific one. It still takes a week but costs no money and results with the recruiter finding a candidate with exactly specified class, species and special skill. A skill roll can also be used in a dungeon to get a band of mortals who have agreed to negotiate to join forces with the party (terms and conditions apply—if it is a band of 1-HD orcs, bandits, dwarves, for example, they'll want about 10gp each). You need to be able to communicate in a common language for this to work.

REPAIRMAN: if you have proper tools, or close substitutes as the Judge permits, make a skill roll to repair any broken piece of equipment or non-magical device. Requires Tool Kit.

SEARCHER: roll skill to detect monsters, vermin, poison, disease or treasure in piles of dungeon garbage while avoiding bites or other nasty surprises. It also allows examination of sacks before opening to avoid nasty side effects. Orcs and Half-Orcs get this skill for free.

SECRET DOOR EXPERT: uses the skill roll in place of standard check to find secret doors or hidden compartments, (standard is a 4+ on 1d4 for careful searching). Elves and Half Elves have this skill for free, plus they will notice a secret door without even trying on a 4+ on 1d4.

SHIELD SACRIFICE: a character who is proficient with shields and is using one can declare a shield sacrifice when hit in combat. His shield is then destroyed by the blow in question, and if he makes a skill roll, he suffers no damage from that attack. Requires a Shield.

SPLIT-FIRE: a human mounted on horseback or an elf on foot with this skill on a successful skill roll may move part of his movement allowance, shoot a bow or throw a javelin or dart, and then move the rest of his movement. Normally, shooting ends movement.

STONework: roll skill to detect pit traps, any other traps built into the masonry, sliding passages, slopes and notable stone work. Dwarves and Gnomes have this for free. Unskilled characters can try to detect such things on an WIS check on 1d100.

TOO STUBBORN TO DIE: when the character is brought to 0 hit points or fewer, he makes a skill roll. If he succeeds, he can remain conscious and keep fighting. He can keep fighting each round by making a new skill check. When he reaches a negative number of hit points greater than his CON, he will automatically die then. When all enemies are dead or out of sight, he will collapse into critically injured unconsciousness.

TRACKING: make a skill roll to track the route taken by others in wilderness or dungeon. Various dog-like creatures can achieve this skill by means of scent alone. Doggers and Badgermon get this skill (by scent) for free.

TREAT CRITICAL INJURY: a successful skill check will bring 1 character who has 0 or fewer hit points remaining, but has not yet died, back to 1 hit point. The treatment takes 1 turn, but any continuing blood loss is paused when the treatment is underway, and the treatment must be done within 1 hour of the end of the wounding. Requires Healer's Bag.

1.8—STEP 8: STARTING SPELLS:

Each standard magic-user or specialist mage has in his possession a Spell Book in which he writes all the formulae necessary to prepare spells to be cast. Such a book is a magical device, prepared by his mentor, that will always have enough pages in it for the magician to use for however many spells he needs. The maximum number of spells he can have in his book per spell level is equal to the magic-user's INT ability score.

Each magic-user or specialist begins with the Magic Art Spells Read Magic and Circle of Protection in his book. The magic-user then chooses 4 other first level spells that he desires and adds them to his book (he doesn't need to make any rolls at this point, he gets these automatically). A specialist receives the first level spell from his Realm of specialty, and 3 others of his choice except that they can't be from the 2 realms he is forbidden.

A natural sorcerer or witch chooses exactly 1 spell, which is now in his mental inventory and can be cast 1 time per day. He needs no book.

Clerics re-select their spells from the entire cleric list every day and are not limited by a book or mental inventory.

1.9—STEP 9—Languages

All characters know the language known as the Common Tongue (the predominant human and halfling language in the area). Except for Humans, Changelings and Halflings, they all know a second language as well, typically their own species-specific language (e.g. Dwarves know Dwarvish). Half-elves, know elvish, Half-orcs and Half-Ogres know Orcish and Ogre respectively. In addition to these base languages, each character can choose 1 additional language for each point of INT he has over 10

1.10—STEP 10: STARTING EQUIPMENT

All characters: 2 sets of clothing, 1 belt, scabbards for any knives, daggers or swords, 1 money pouch, 1 wine skin with 2 pints of wine, beer or water, 1 pair of boots, 1 backpack, 2 large sacks and 1 Food Bag with 7 days of iron rations. Only the Food Bag, Money Pouch and Wine Skin (as long as they have contents) count as an Item for encumbrance purposes. This package costs 0gp, and are maintained, replaced as part of Living Expenses.

Total Cost:: 0gp Total Items: 3

Magic-Users and Specialist Mages: also begin with a Spell Book, which is precious and necessary to them, which counts as another 1 item.

SHOPPING LIST: while Book 4 has a complete list of equipment available, the list below has enough for beginning characters to get them on their way. Each entry on the list counts as 1 "Item" except for those marked with an "#" which do not count as items. Weapons usable by clerics are marked with a c, those usable by magic-users are marked with an m, thieves and fighters may use all weapons. Armor wearable by thieves s marked "t", Fighters ad Clerics can wear all armor, Magic-users none

1.11—STEP 11: MOVEMENT AND ENCUMBRANCE

Encumbrance and movement will be handled in a simple, direct manner: A character has 3 possible states of encumbrance and movement:

NORMAL: character is not wearing Heavy Armor (scale, chain mail, brigandine or plate armor) and is carrying a number of items equal to or less than his STR ability score.

Armored or Loaded: a character is either wearing Heavy Armor OR is carrying more items than his STR ability score, but less than twice his score.

ENCUMBERED: a character is wearing Heavy Armor AND is carrying more than his STR score in items, but less than twice his score. He counts at this level if he is carrying a body, or a chest or anything listed in the Equipment Book as “big”, regardless of his armor and equipment.

STANDARD MOVE	NORMAL	ARMORED OR LOADED	ENCUMBERED
10'	10'	5'	5'
15'	15'	10'	5'
20'	20'	15'	5'
25' (dwarf, small folk)	25'	20'	10'
30' (most characters)	30'	25'	15'
35' (heavy horse)	35'	30'	20'
40' (medium horse)	40'	35'	25'
45' (light horse)	45'	40'	30'
50'	50'	45'	35'

ITEMS:

Each character can carry a number of Items equal to his STR score before becoming Loaded or twice that before becoming Encumbered. What exactly counts as a single item? Mostly it is just that, if it is a thing, it counts as an item. However, sometimes very small things might not count as a single item—as a rule of thumb, if the gear book gives it an Item Count of 0, 20 of the items to fill a pouch which counts as a single item. Clothing, backpacks, belts, and sacks do not count as items carried. Here are some examples:

Any 1 weapon, Any suit of armor (including helmet), Any shield (1 item for each of those)

Character's money bag with up to 500 coins

1 quiver of 20 arrows or 30 quarrels

Food sack with 7 days iron rations

1 pouch containing a sling and up to 30 stones

1 quiver of up to 6 javelins or 12 darts

1 Herbalist Bag (containing up to 20 herbs or concoctions)

1 Alchemist Kit (containing up to 20 alchemical products)

1 Bandoleer with up to 5 flasks, knives, bottles

1 scroll case (containing up to 7 spells or maps on scrolls)

1 potion, 1 flask of oil, or 1 vial of holy water

1 lantern containing oil

bundle of 6 torches

PART TWO: COMBAT RULES

2.1—COMBAT BASIC PROCEDURE:

TO HIT: Each monster or character has an AC rating based either on its monster description or the armor worn. The minimum AC is 10, the maximum is 22. The AC is the number that must be rolled on 1d20, with modifiers added, or higher in order to score a damaging blow on the creature, this is called the "To Hit" roll. Characters with classes use the Attack Bonus listed for their class and level as one modifier, plus any modifier from ability scores, magic weaponry, tactical situation, weapon property, range or spell assistance. A roll of a natural 20 is always a hit, a roll of a natural 1 is always a miss, without regard to any modifiers.

DAMAGE: Once a Hit has been successfully made, the attacker rolls a number of damage points as determined either by the monster description (e.g. a troll claw does 1d6 damage) or weapon used (e.g., a halberd does 1d8 damage). Each character or creature has a number of hit points determined by the totals of its hit dice. Each hit subtracts its damage from the target's current hit point total. When the hit points reach 0 or less, the combatant collapses and is either dead or critically wounded, in either case it stops fighting, unable to take further actions.

DEATH AND CRITICAL INJURY: being at 0 or below hit points indicates that the character is Critically Injured and will lose 1 hit point per round through blood loss until cured by a First Aid skill check, a Treat Critical Injury skill check, or magical healing. He can stay alive, but critically injured if he does not fall below his CON score in negative hit points. For example, Fighting Frank, who has a CON of 13, is still alive at -13 hit points, but dead at -14. A critically injured character must make a CON check on 1d20, or will lose 1 point permanently from 1 Ability Score, rolled at random. Some magic spells (see descriptions) can return a Critically Injured target to 1 hit point, as can the Treat Critical Injury Skill, in either case, the injured person still needs to check for ability loss. For monsters and NPCs without a CON score, most of the time, just consider them dead at 0 hit points. If the players try to save one, make a saving throw for the creature, if it passes, roll 2d6, that's how many rounds they have to attempt to stabilize the critical injury.

MAXIMAL HIT: if any combatant rolls a natural 20 on the die, it is considered a Maximal Hit and the damage die rolled is automatically maximum.

2.2—SURPRISE

Before the first round, each side rolls 1d6 for surprise when 2 sides meet each other. A die result of 1 means that that side is surprised for 1 round and does nothing. A die result of 2 means that that side is surprised for 2 rounds and does nothing. A character or group of characters (at least 60' away from allies without the skill) all of whom have the Move Silently Skill and make their skill rolls will get a round of surprise on enemies, in addition to any surprise rolled on the die. Likewise, characters who are hidden (such as from a Hide in Shadows skill check or invisibility spell) gets a round of surprise.

2.3—INITIATIVE

Combat is handled in ROUNDS, each of which is 6-seconds, 10 per minute. At the beginning of each round, each side rolls 1d6, with the side with the higher roll gaining the initiative and acting first. If the result is a tie, then the side defending the place goes first.

Each combatant on the winning side moves and makes his attack-- in either order.

On the player character side, the PC with the highest CHA decides which combatant acts in what order, if there is a conflict/dispute.

Combatants may interlace actions and moves with each other, but each must complete move before attack or attack before move. Example: Fred can move, then Joe shoots, then Fred shoots and then Joe moves. However, Fred can't take half his move, then attack (or let Joe attack) and then complete the move.

When the first side has finished all its actions, the second side then carries out its moves and attacks and then initiative is re-rolled.

When both sides have completed their actions, any necessary Morale Checks are made.

2.4—ACTION ECONOMY

Each combatant has 1 Attack Action and 1 Movement Action to use each round.

A—ATTACKS: The following actions spend the Attack Action for the round:

- Attacking with a melee or missile weapon, or throwing a flask
- Casting a spell
- Attempting to Rally followers who have failed morale.
- Using a scroll, potion or other magic item that requires activation
- Using an Alchemical Device or Product
- Parrying
- Changing Weapons (attack OR movement), if your weapon is a Fast Draw Weapon like a knife, dagger or sword, it can be drawn without losing an action (but you have to drop whatever else had been in your hand). If you succeed at a Quick Draw skill roll, you can change weapons at no action cost.

B—MOVES: The following actions spend the Movement Action for the round:

- Moving up to your normal movement allowance
- Stand up from prone position
- Mount or dismount from a horse
- Attempt to move silently or hide in the shadows (may move 1/2 of normal allowance, succeed or fail).
- Make a second shot with a ROF 2 missile weapon
- Changing Weapons (attack OR movement), if your weapon is a Fast Draw Weapon like a knife, dagger or sword, it can be drawn without losing an action (but you have to drop whatever else had been in your hand). If you succeed at a Quick Draw skill roll, you can change weapons at no action cost.

C—MOVE AND ATTACK: The following actions spend BOTH the Movement and the Attack actions for the round:

- Reloading a Crossbow (this and next round for Heavy Crossbow)
- Picking up an object from the ground
- Make a Fighting Withdraw
- Run (double move allowance); Player Characters and NPC's with a DEX also add a number of feet equal to their dexterity score, all others add 10'. 4-footed creatures get triple move allowance.
- Charge (at least 15', up to double, into contact making an attack)
- Administering First Aid or attempting other non-combat skill (Judge's option)

D—EXTRA ACTIONS: There are extra actions that can be taken as a result of circumstance and that do not spend the Attack or Movement for the round:

- Making an Extra Attack against a fleeing enemy (1 for most characters, 2 for fighters)
- Fighter Rampage Extra Attacks (up to 8)
- Weapon Length Extra Attack (at most 1, when first contact is made)
- Weapon Speed Extra Attack (second attack for using a Small weapon against a Large one no extra action)
- Shield Sacrifice Skill (1 per round)

2.5—MISSILE COMBAT

Weapons on the weapon chart with a listed range can be used to shoot or throw at enemies at a distance. The weapon will be listed with 3 range bands, for example, 10/20/30, the first is the short range, the second medium range, the third long range. Attacks at short range are made at +1 to hit, those at medium range at +0, those at long range at -1 to hit. Monsters also might have ranged attacks in their monster descriptions which follow the same procedure.

A combatant who is in melee contact with an armed enemy cannot shoot a bow, crossbow or sling, but may still throw hurled weapons. If you attempt to shoot an enemy who is currently in melee combat with your own allies, you suffer a -2 on your "To Hit" roll. If you roll a Natural 1 or 2 on the d20 roll, you hit your ally rather than the enemy.

A missile weapon with a Rate of Fire (ROF) of 2 can shoot twice in a round, but only if the shooter does not move. A light crossbow takes a Move and an Attack action to reload. A heavy crossbow takes 2 Moves and 2 Attacks to reload.

A shooter who is on a wall or tower shooting downward gets a +2 on his "To Hit" roll. Partial Cover (being among trees, bushes, around a corner, on a stockade platform) grants the defender +4 AC. Heavy Cover (on a crenelated battlement, behind a window) grants the defender +7 AC. Full Cover (behind an arrow-slit) grants the defender +10 AC.

2.6—MELEE COMBAT

MELEE CONTACT: when two or more combatants do not have a full 5' space between them they are said to be in Melee Contact and can strike each other with any sort of weapon they might have. If a combatant in contact is stunned, asleep, or otherwise prevented from making an attack action, he does not count as making melee contact with anyone.

REACH WEAPONS: Spears, Bills, Halberds, and Lances are noted with the code R1. Pikes are noted with the code R2. R1 weapons, as well as Gigantic Sized Monsters, can attack an enemy when they are not in melee contact, when there is a 5' space (but not more) between them. R2 weapons can attack when there is a 10' space between the combatants but cannot be used in melee contact. This also means that those with an R1 weapon may strike from the 2nd row of a formation and those with an R2 weapon can strike from the third row.

LANCE CHARGE AND RECEIVE CHARGE: Lances have the code CB, for Charge Bonus, when such weapons are used from a medium or heavy warhorse during the Charge Combat Maneuver (see below), and score a hit, roll 2 dice of damage instead of the usual one on the first attack of the round. Spears and Pikes have the code RC for Receive Charge, if someone Charges the user of such a weapon and the user hits them during the round of the charge, the first such hit does 2 dice of damage instead of the usual one. If either a Lance Charge or Receive Charge attack scores a natural 20, both damage dice are maximized.

FIRST CONTACT EXTRA ATTACK: when 2 combatants come into melee contact for the first time, if one of them has a Longer Weapon than the other, the one with the longer weapon gets an Extra Attack before the other can strike (this can interrupt initiative order). A combatant can only make 1 such Length extra attack per round. Length of weapon is defined as the following, Longest to Shortest: R2 Weapons (pike), R1 Weapons (spear, halberd, bill or lance), all Large Weapons, all Medium Weapons, all Small Weapons.

Examples: If Sir Frank (lance R1) charges Pikestaff Pete (pike, R2), even though Frank won the initiative, Pete gets an Extra attack after Frank moves into contact, but before Frank gets his normal attack. Bluto (club, medium weapon) rushes Mystic Steve (dagger, small weapon), Bluto gets an extra attack because his club is longer than Steve's dagger. Bluto then gets his normal attack.

FASTER WEAPON: if one combatant has a Small weapon, while the other has a Large, the character with the Small Weapon may make 2 attacks per round, except the first round of contact..

KNOCKDOWN: is a Small or Medium combatant is hit with a Large Weapon or Large or Gigantic enemy in combat, and the damage rolled on the dice is 5 or better (i.e., exclude modifiers), then the combatant must make a Saving Throw or be knocked prone. Large combatants hit by Gigantic ones are likewise subject to knockdown. Knockdown also applies to Large Missile Weapon hits (crossbows, siege engines, and boulders thrown by giants) against Medium or Small combatants.

GANGING UP: If a group of 4 or more attackers in melee contact attack a single target, who is not adjacent to any of his own allies, then the attackers all gain a +2 on their hit rolls. This does not apply to attacking gigantic creatures like dragons, purple worms, dinosaurs and giants.

SPELL CASTING IN MELEE CONTACT: A combatant in melee contact may not cast a spell unless the spell description allows for it (typically only Grip Spells). Under no circumstance can he use a scroll. He may, however, use a wand or similar magic device, or use natural inborn magic abilities (not including spells cast by Natural Sorcerers).

CHANGING WEAPONS AND PICKING UP OBJECTS: if an object is dropped onto the ground, a combatant must use both his Attack and his Move for the round to pick it up. If he wishes to change weapons or draw a weapon from his belt etc., he must forfeit either his Attack or his Move for the round. If he has the Quick Draw Skill, he can change or draw a weapon without giving up either move or attack on a successful skill roll. If the weapon is a Fast Draw Weapon (FD) like a sword, knife or dagger, he can drop what is in his hand and pull the FD weapon without spending his Move or Attack.

GETTING UP FROM PRONE, MOUNTING AND DISMOUNTING: getting up from a prone position or mounting or dismounting from a horse requires a character to use his entire Movement phase. A thief or fighter can attempt to get up from prone or mount/dismount a horse and still move by rolling STR or less (Fighters) or DEX or less (thieves) on a d20. If they fail the roll, they forfeit all their actions until the next movement phase, if they pass they can make a full movement after standing up or mounting/dismounting. A prone character can make melee attacks but not with Large Weapons or 2-handed Medium weapons. He is at a -4 penalty on those attacks. Enemies get a +3 to hit prone targets with melee weapons, but minus 3 with ranged attacks. Swords, short swords and daggers gain an additional +2 to hit against targets that are prone and wearing plate armor.

MOUNTED COMBAT:

- Horses (whether mounted or not) can either move or attack in the same round, never both.
- Warhorses are the only mounts that can attack while mounted by a rider.
- Lances from a medium or heavy warhorse do double damage on a charge.
- A rider gets a +1 to hit when attacking an opponent on foot
- Unmounted combatants suffer a -2 to hit when attacking a Fighter-classed opponent mounted on a horse

WITHDRAW FROM MELEE: if an enemy moves out of melee contact with a combatant, that combatant is entitled to an Extra Attack, with a +2 to hit (+4 by thieves) against the moving enemy. Most combatants only may make one such Extra Attack per round, which goes against the first enemy to withdraw during the round, but a Fighter-class combatant gets 2 such Extra Attacks, one each against the first 2 who leave.

2.7—SPELL CASTING AND MAGIC IN COMBAT

SPELL ATTACKS: while melee weapons and missile weapons both require that the combatant makes a “To Hit” roll to inflict damage, spells never so require. They automatically hit the enemy that is targeted by the spell. The target may be able to attempt a Saving Throw (see below) to avoid the damage, however.

STUMP THE CASTER: if a caster is hit in combat by any damage-causing attack, he may not cast a spell or use a scroll for the rest of the round. He may still drink a potion, or use another magic item.

HASSLE THE CASTER: if a caster is in melee contact with an enemy, he cannot cast a spell, unless the spell description specifically allows for it (typically, only Grip Spells do so). In no circumstances can anyone cast a spell from a scroll if in melee contact.

SAVING THROW: some spells and monster or weapon effects indicate that a Saving Throw is permitted against them. If so, the targets roll 1d20 and must get the Saving Throw number or higher on it. The saving throw numbers are listed on the Class Progression Tables for each class or on the Monster Description. However, it is easily calculated as being 17 or higher, minus the Character Level or Monster HD, to a maximum of -11, e.g. a 10th level Fighter has a Saving Throw of 17-10= 7. The roller also adds any specific modifier from his class and/or species. If the defender succeeds at the saving throw, the spell has no effect on him, unless the spell description says “Yes, half”, in which case the spell inflicts half the indicated damage (round down) on a successful save. If someone does indeed take half damage from a spell or other effect, like Dragon Breath, that damage will never bring his hit point total to less than 1 hit points (it's hardly a “Save” if he succeeds, but dies anyway). A roll of natural 19 or 20 is always a successful save, a roll of a natural 1 or 2 is always a failed save, no matter what modifiers come into play.

2.8—MORALE

Each group of combatants have a Morale Rating (abbreviated MOR), which ranges from 2 to 18. When certain conditions apply, the Judge will roll 1d20 to check to see if the group continues to fight, if the d20 result is equal to or lower than the group's MOR, the group keeps fighting. If the die result is higher than the MOR, the group retreats. The Morale Check is made at the end of the round, after both sides have acted.

Morale can be checked whenever the Judge deems it necessary, but it is usual under the following circumstances:

- 50% of the group's numbers have been killed, critically injured or rendered unconscious
- The group's leader has been killed, rendered unconscious or has fled.
- 25% of the group was killed/knocked out by a single attack or effect
- The group's weapons seem unable to inflict casualties on their enemy
- The group suffers more casualties on a round after passing one of the other checks.
- A singular monster has lost half or more of his hit points.

Player characters do not have a MOR score, it is in the player's hands whether they fight or flee. Creatures like Golems, Skeletons, Zombies or Robots, with no real consciousness do not have a MOR score and never check morale. Anyone under the influence of Berserk Rage never needs to check morale. Other creatures will be rated with a number of 6-sided dice to be rolled to determine MOR rating for each individual group (so one band of orcs might have a 15 MOR, but another, 2 rooms away might only have a 6). No matter how many dice are rolled, pick the best 3 of them (or best 2 if there are only 2) and total them to determine MOR.

Examples:

- 2d6: Peasants, Kobolds, Goblins, Sneak Thieves
- 3d6: Orcs, Guards, Hobgoblins, Ogres
- 4d6: Knights, Adventurers, Elite Orc Warriors
- 5d6: Fanatics, Werewolves
- 6d6: Demon Lord, Trolls

2.9—COMBAT MANEUVERS

Combat Maneuvers are options that characters may use in certain circumstances. Some are restricted to certain classes; some have certain equipment required.

CHARGE (all) : a combatant who is not currently in melee contact with an enemy can declare a Charge, if he is anywhere between 15' and double his maximum move allowance from his target. He then moves into contact with the declared target and makes an attack. A combatant may not charge 2 rounds in a row. Charging gains the attacker +1 to hit and +1 on damage rolls. If, however, he is using a lance from a medium or heavy warhorse, he will gain +1 to hit and double the number of rolled damage dice. If, on the round he charges, a combatant is hit by an enemy using a weapon rated as "RC" (spear, pike), then the RC weapon will do double number of dice of weapon damage. Charging uphill gains no charging benefit to hit or damage, but charging down a slope grants an additional +1 damage and 5' movement.

DISARM ATTACK (F,C,T) when a Fighter, Cleric or Thief uses a weapon with the "DA" code against a target armed with a weapon of equal or lighter size code than he is using, he can declare that he is attempting to Disarm the target. He makes his "to hit" roll as normal, and if he hits, the target must make a Saving Throw or see his weapon knocked out of his hands.

DISMOUNT ATTACK (F) When a Fighter uses a weapon with the “DM” code against a target mounted on a horse (or similar mount) he can declare he intends to dismount the target. If he scores a hit, the target suffers no damage, but must make a Saving Throw, or he will be knocked prone to the ground, off his horse. He must make a second save or he will be stunned, missing his next round, and suffer 1d4 damage.

FIGHTER RAMPAGE ATTACK (F) Any time a Fighter-classed character drops an enemy to 0 hit points or below in hand-to-hand combat (not missile fire), he may make an Extra Attack against any opponent in reach. He may repeat this each time he drops an enemy to a maximum of 1 Extra Attack per experience level or 8, whichever is lower, in any given round. The Judge may grant this power to monsters (e.g. Trolls, Dragons or Giants) at his discretion.

FIGHTING WITHDRAW (all): a character can move half his movement rate and leave Melee Contact without provoking an Extra Attack, but this costs the combatant both his Movement and his Attack Action for the round.

IMPROVISED MANEUVERS (all): a combatant may try anything else he may think of not covered here. If it's reasonable it will probably need an Ability Check on 1d20, and then either a to hit roll from himself, or a Saving Throw from his enemy. If it's preposterous, make the combatant's ability roll on a d100. Example 1: “I throw a barrel at him”: Rocko wants to pick up a barrel, half filled with pickle brine, and throw it from a balcony onto a charging Ogre below. Judge decrees Rocko roll STR or less on 1d20 to pick it up and throw it, then a “to hit” roll to land it on the Ogre, at that point the Ogre takes 1d6 damage and must roll a Saving Throw or fall prone. Example 2: “Whirling Attack”: Dervish Tom decides to use his sword and swing around in a complete circle to try to hit all 6 enemies in contact with him at once. Judge declares he roll his DEX or less on 1d100 or he's wasted his turn. If he makes it, he can roll 6 to hit rolls, one against each enemy.

PARRY (all): Any combatant wielding a weapon or shield can give up his attacks to make a parry, giving the enemy a -2 to hit in melee attack, but Small Weapons cannot parry Large Weapons. The parrying combatant can apply this defense against a number of melee attacks in a round equal to his Level or HD.

PARRY-FIGHTERS (F) Fighter-classed combatants, only, have several additional parry abilities. First, if they are currently using a shield, they can apply their parry bonus against missile attacks, where other characters cannot. Secondly, their parry defensive bonus increases with level, adding their damage bonus on the Fighter Progression Table. So, a level 10 Fighter has a -4 Parry instead of a -2.

SPLIT OR HOOK SHIELD (F): A Fighter using a weapon with the SS code can declare he is attempting to Split or Hook an enemy's shield. He rolls to hit as normal, but instead of doing damage on a hit, the defender must make a Saving Throw or at the attacker's choice, have his shield split into pieces, destroyed, or it will be hooked and yanked out of his hands onto the ground. Magic shields are always hooked, not destroyed.

STAND AND FIGHT (F): A fighter can use his Move Action to make a melee attack. In other words, if he does not move, he may make 2 regular attacks with a hand-to-hand (melee) weapon. This might give him an extra opportunity to make a Rampage extra attack, but does not double the number of Rampage attacks he can make per round.

2.10—WEAPON PROPERTIES AND FEATURES

Each weapon available to characters and monsters has a number of properties that distinguish it from the others.

Type: this is the name of the weapon

Price: the purchase price of the weapon

Damage: the number of damage points rolled on a successful hit

Hands: whether the weapon is used in 1 hand or 2. Some Weapons (clubs, war-hammers, swords, spears, and battle-axes) can be used in either 1 or 2 hands, each use gets a separate entry on the weapon chart with different statistics, but it is the same weapon used in 2 manners.

Size: weapons are rated as Small, Medium or Large. Difference in size of weapons between 2 opponents can yield extra attacks in certain circumstances, and Large Weapons can knock down Medium or Small opponents (see above for all this).

Class: what character classes can use the weapon without penalty (F=fighter, T=thief, C=cleric, M=magic-user, L=lackey, all=all classes).

Features: what special features apply to the weapon, codes are explained below.

ROF: the rate of fire (i.e., number of times per round the weapon can be fired), only missile weapons have a ROF.

Range: the short/medium/long ranges of the missile weapon (equals feet indoors, yards outdoors). Short range gives a +1 to hit. Long Range gives a -1 to hit.

FEATURES: BY CODE:

FD: Fast Draw: weapon can be drawn from a scabbard without taking an action.

DA: Disarm: weapon can be used for the Disarm Combat Maneuver

DM: Dismount: weapon can be used for the Dismount Combat Maneuver

CB: Charge Bonus: weapon does double damage roll from a charging warhorse

H: Hurlled: weapon can be thrown as a missile weapon in addition to melee use

RC: Receive Charge: weapon does double damage dice against charging enemy

R1: Reach 1: can attack from 5' away

R2: Reach 2: can attack from 10' away (R2 weapons can only be used outdoors)

AM: Anti-Mail: weapon gets +1 to hit against Scale or Chain mail armor.

AP: Anti-Plate: weapons gets +1 to hit against Brigandine or Plate armor

SS: Split Shield: weapon can be used for the Split or Hook Shield Maneuver

Heavy Crossbow: a heavy crossbow gets a +3 to hit at Short Range against any target wearing Lamellar, Scale, Chain, Brigandine or Plate armor. It also does an additional 1d4 damage against all targets at Short range.

2.11—COMBAT GRAB-BAG

POISON: unless the description reads otherwise, the default for a poison attack is that the victim gets a saving throw. If he fails the saving throw, he falls to the ground twitching and foaming at the mouth, completely helpless and will die about 10 minutes after the combat ends, unless cured or treated. Some poisons may only paralyze, others may grant a bonus to the saving throw. As the Neutralize Poison spell indicates, even if the victim "dies", he actually lingers for about an hour in which time a spell or herb or treatment may still rescue the victim.

ITEM SAVES: When a character fails a saving throw against a damage-inflicting Fire, Cold, Lightning or Acid attack, his items might be destroyed in the process. Item Saving Throws use the same number as the character carrying the item. Magic items (apart from scrolls) are unaffected by normal fires or acid attacks but are susceptible to dragon breath and fire/acid that comes from a magic spell.

- Fire Attacks: all scrolls, papers and books are automatically destroyed unless kept in a metal case or box, each other item that is not made of metal must make a saving throw or be destroyed.
- Acid Attacks: each item must make a saving throw or be destroyed.
- Cold Attacks: papers, scrolls, books and leather items are unaffected, all other items must make a saving throw or be destroyed.
- Lightning Attacks: each item must make a saving throw or be destroyed.

2.12 ARMOR CLASS

The base AC for mortals is 10 (except Lizardo, see below). Add the AC bonus for any armor worn to 10 to get the characters Armor Class. A character can only get the AC bonus from 1 suit of armor at a time. The AC bonus of a shield, however, is added to the AC bonus of the armor worn. Chain, Scale, Brigandine and Plate all include a Gambeson or Arming Doublet, worn underneath, in their AC bonus totals and Price.

Lizardo have an unarmored AC of 12, but gain no AC bonus from Hides, Leather or Gambeson. Lamellar would be 13 and Chain 14 etc., for Lizardo, just as for other mortals.

A Pavis is a large wooden shield with a stand-alone base. Anyone who carries one is encumbered and uses both hands, but it can be stood up as a protection vs. missiles for an archer, crossbowman or wizard to hide behind.

PART THREE: SPELLS

Spell Descriptions:

Curse Food and Water (CL-1)

Casting Time : 1 action

Save: Yes

Target/AOE: 12 portions of food

Type: Curse

Range: 10

Duration: 1 hour

The curse makes the food and water for up to 12 people at a single meal corrupted. There is no outward sign of it and if someone eats it, he takes 1d2 points of damage and must make a save or contract a disease

Each spell is described in the format shown on the example above.

Name Line: contains name of the spell with whether it is a Cleric(CL) or Magic-User (MU) spell and the spell level. Curse Food and Water is a 1st level Cleric spell.

Casting Time: most spells are 1 action in casting time, meaning that the caster uses his attack for the round to cast the spell, some, however, are longer rituals or enchantments.

Realm or Type: each magic-user spell has a Realm, which governs what specialist can cast what spell and also can involve immunity and vulnerability (e.g. Fire realm spells might not affect a Fire Elemental). Cleric Spells have a Type, but all clerics have access to all types, except Law Type is restricted to Lawful Clerics, Neutral type to Neutral Clerics and Chaos types to Chaotic clerics. If the letter P is added after the Realm/Type, then the spell can be made into a Potion by the appropriate potion-making spell.

Save: does the target get a saving throw to avoid the effects of the spell. "Yes" means if he rolls a save he avoids the negative effects of the spell. "No" or "None" means he cannot even roll a save. "Yes, half" means if he succeeds a saving throw he takes half the indicated damage, but never falls to less than 1 hit point as a result.

Range: the distance from the caster at which the spell can still reach, it is measured in feet. Touch means the caster must touch the object. 0 means it affects the caster or an area centered on the caster.

Target/AoE: the targets the spell can affect or the area in which the spell affects everyone or everything or designated types.

Duration: the length of time that the spell lasts. If it says Rounds or Combat Rounds that means the 6-second period in a standard combat. If it says Turns, it means 10-minutes exploration turns. If it says Immediate, it means that the event is accomplished the moment the spell is cast and cannot be dispelled (e.g. inflicting damage is immediate, a dispel magic won't remove the damage). Permanent means the spell lasts forever unless it is dispelled somehow (by a dispel magic usually, but perhaps also by a remove curse or special condition described by the spell).

Divine Circle (CL-1)

Casting Time : 5 minutes	Type: Protection
Save: Yes	Range: 0
Target/AOE: 10' diameter circle	Duration: until circle is broken

The cleric draws a circle on the ground and inscribes certain divine symbols of power around it. The circle can be used to keep something in or keep something out. In either case, undead, demons, elementals, summoned monsters, spirits or any creature from beyond the physical world, cannot cross the line of the circle without making a Saving Throw. The creature can make an attempt once every 10 minutes. If the caster is present, to cross the circle, the creature must make a Saving Throw and the caster must fail a Saving Throw. If the caster is not present, the creature merely needs to make his saving throw. If for any reason, the circle is broken, smudged, erased etc., the spell fails. Creatures may not make any physical attack or hurl fire or the like over the line of the circle, but can attempt charms or other enchantments, telekinesis, illusions, or anything not involving an object crossing the barrier. The allies of the caster can make missile or spell attacks across the barrier, but if they miss or the defending creature makes a saving throw, then the circle is smudged and fails. Any spell resistance that a creature has is not effective against a Divine Circle.

Sanctify Staff (CL-4)

Casting Time : 1 month per spell level, plus charges

Save: No

Target/AOE: 1 staff

Type: Special

Range: Touch

Duration: Permanent

Spending 1 month and 1000gp per level of the spell (maximum of 5th level spells), the cleric can sanctify a staff that contains multiple charges of that spell. When the initial preparation is complete, there is, however a chance the creation will fail. The caster must roll his WIS ability score, minus the level of the spell, or less on a 20 to succeed, or his time and money are wasted. Once the initial preparation has succeeded, he has a window to add charges to the staff. He can add charges for a number of days equal to his WIS score. Each day he can add a number of charges equal to the number of times he can prepare the level of spell contained in the staff. At the end of the charging window, the staff is completed and no more charges can be added. When all the charges in a staff are used up, the staff becomes an ordinary staff, but can be re-sanctified by the same process, at a 10% discount in time and money.

For example, if Bishop Walter a 9th level cleric with WIS of 16, wants to create a Staff of Cure Wounded (level 1), he spends 1 month and 1000gp to prepare the staff. Then, he must roll 16 (WIS) minus 1 (1st level spell) =15 or less on 1d20 to have successfully sanctified the staff. Assuming he succeeds, he then can add 4 charges per day (number of first level spells he can prepare per day) for 16 days (WIS), at the end of which time he has a staff with 64 charges.

Permanent (CL-7)

This spell is not necessary to make permanent magic items. A scroll, however, can be made "permanent" allowing it to be used 1 time each day. Putting a Permanent spell on a Gate spell opens a permanent portal to some extra-worldly place allowing beings to pass through it at will. Casting permanent spell has a price, first it requires 1000gp worth of powdered diamonds which are expended by the spell, second, the caster must make a saving throw or he will lose 1 point from a random ability score (permanently).

3.2—MAGIC-USER SPELLS

The magic-users spells have been organized into a recognized canon of spells. These spells are not all the ones that exist or can exist; yet are the ones that are taught by guilds and most mentors. They are also the ones most likely to be found on scrolls and in spell books discovered on adventures.

Spell Books and Acquiring Spells:

Each magic-user has in his possession a Spell Book in which he writes all the formulae necessary to prepare spells to be cast. Such a book is a magical device, prepared by his mentor, that will always have enough pages in it for the magician to use for however many spells he needs. The maximum number of spells he can have in his book per spell level is equal to the magic-user's INT ability score.

Each magic-user begins with the Magic Art Spells Read Magic and Circle of Protection in his book. The Read Magic spell is crucial to the magician's art and he cannot make or read scrolls or read or write spells in spell books without it. Circle of Protection is the second spell taught to apprentices, being highly useful in defending against evil spirits and the like. The player then chooses 4 other first level spells that he desires and adds them to his book (he doesn't need to make any rolls at this point, he gets these automatically).

When a magic-user gains an experience level, he gets 1 spell of his choice from any spell level he can cast added to his book. He is assumed to have worked this out on his own during his magical preparations and down time. If he is a specialist mage, he must choose a spell of his specialty realm if any are available. Also, when he gains a new spell level (e.g. when he reaches level 5 and can cast 3rd level spells for the first time) he automatically gains any Magic Art spells of that level.

Any additional spells he must find either in the captured spell books of enemy magic-users or from scroll spells. If a magic-user wants to add a spell to his book from these sources, he must cast a Read Magic spell, then physically copy the spell into his book with ink. By doing so, he destroys the scroll or the spell-page from the spell book he copies from. He must also roll 1d20 and get a result equal to or lesser than his INT ability score, or he fails to understand the spell and cannot try to add it to his book again until he gains an experience level. In order for a magic-user to share a spell with another, he must make a copy onto a scroll (100gp and 1 week per spell level) and hand over the scroll, or teach the spell orally (1 month per spell level).

If his spell book is lost or destroyed, he can purchase another for 2000gp. This book will have the Read Magic and Circle of Protection spells already within it, but any other spells must be copied into it by the magic-user from scrolls or a captured book. The magic-user can roll 1d100 for each of his lost spells and for each one that he rolls his INT score or less, he remembers the formula precisely enough to add it to his new spell book.

Magical Research:

Magic-users and Specialist Mages can do research to create new spells, discover how to cast canon spells they haven't come across and to find formulae to special potions. The rules are in Book 3. They will require either access to a magic guild library through monthly dues, or to have collected such a library themselves (Book 4 has the prices for these).

The Spell Realms:

Each spell belongs to one of the Spell Realms, each of which also has an opposite. Outside of the 12 realms are the Grip Spells and the Magical Art spells which are not opposite to anything. There is 1 spell per spell level from each realm in the Wizard's Canon, although more from each realm exist outside the canon. A specialist mage picks 1 realm to specialize in, and must choose a spell from that realm whenever possible when he advances. The advantage of being a specialist mage is that one gets to prepare 1 additional spell per day per spell level, but that extra spell must be from his specialization. A specialist mage cannot put a spell from the Opposite Realm, or the Second Realm from which he is forbidden (see Magic-Users in part 1) to his specialty into his spell book or cast it from a scroll at all, ever.

THE REALMS

Structure (opposite Knowledge): The Structure Realm deals with the physical arrangement of matter, dimensions and ultimately, soul. Structure spells are often useful, practical spells in dungeon exploration.

Protection (opposite Summoning): The Protection Realm deals with magic that helps keep the caster safe from harm.

Perception (opposite Illusion): The Perception Realm deals with allowing the caster to sense things beyond normal sight or hearing.

Knowledge (opposite Structure): The Knowledge Realm deals with the caster learning information beyond the normal means.

Earth (opposite Air): the Earth Realm deals with manipulating the basic element Earth.

Air (opposite Earth): the Air Realm deals with manipulating the basic element Air.

Fire (opposite Water): the Fire Realm deals with manipulating the basic element Fire.

Water (opposite Fire): the Water Realm deals with manipulating the basic element Water.

Enchantment (opposite Necromancy): Enchantment Realm deals with the interference with the spirit and mind of the target.

Summoning (opposite Protection) The Summoning Realm deals with the bringing of creatures or objects to the presence of the caster and the control of them.

Illusion (opposite Perception): The Illusion Realm deals with the deception of the senses of the targets.

Necromancy (opposite Enchantment): the Necromancy Realm deals with Death, manipulation of flesh and the interaction of soul and body.

Magical Art: these spells lie outside of the Spell Realms and are learned by all magic-users of sufficient level. They are the cornerstones of magic and keys to its understanding and practice.

Grip Spells: while all other spells operate at a distance and cannot be cast by a magic-user who has been engaged in combat, the grip spells require that the caster touch his target and so can be cast during melee combat. As one cannot use a scroll when engaged in melee, Grip spells are infrequently found on scrolls.

3.2.1—FIRST LEVEL MAGIC-USER SPELLS

Air Shield (MU-1)

Casting Time : 1 action

Save: None

Target/AOE: Caster

Realm: Air

Range: 0

Duration: 10 combat rounds

This spell creates a fast whirling current of air that surrounds the caster. While he cannot launch missile weapons or throw flasks or similar objects while shielded, he can still cast spells and do other actions. The air shield gives with caster AC 18 against missiles shot against him and AC 16 against all other attacks.

Circle of Protection (MU-1)

Casting Time : 5 minutes

Save: Yes

Target/AOE: 10' diameter circle

Realm: Magic Art

Range: 0

Duration: until circle is broken

The magic-user draws a circle on the ground and inscribes certain arcane symbols around it. The circle can be used to keep something in or keep something out. In either case, undead, demons, elementals, summoned monsters, spirits or any creature from beyond the physical world, cannot cross the line of the circle without making a Saving Throw. The creature can make an attempt once every 10 minutes. If the caster is present, to cross the circle, the creature must make a Saving Throw and the caster must fail a Saving Throw. If the caster is not present, the creature merely needs to make his saving throw. If for any reason, the circle is broken, smudged, erased etc., the spell fails. Creatures may not make any physical attack or hurl fire or the like over the line of the circle, but can attempt charms or other enchantments, telekinesis, illusions, or anything not involving an object crossing the barrier. The allies of the caster can make missile or spell attacks across the barrier, but if they miss or the defending creature makes a saving throw, then the circle is smudged and fails. Any spell resistance that a creature has is not effective against a Circle of Protection.

Casting Time : 1 Action

Realm: Water

Save: No

Range: 0

This makes missile attacks and ranged spells impossible to target against anyone who is in the fog, or by anyone who is in the fog (including the caster). The fog does not move, so if the caster departs from it, it stays in place.

The spell collects a bunch of large rocks and directs them at great speed against a series of targets. The caster chooses 1 target per experience level within 240' and 1 boulder is hurled against each one. Each boulder does 2d4 hit points of damage, unless the target makes a saving throw, in which case the boulder misses. The caster can target a particular individual with several boulders. Create Wands (MU-4)

Casting Time : 1 month per spell level, plus charges	Realm: Magic Art
Save: No	Range: Touch
Target/AOE: 1 wand	Duration: Permanent

Spending 1 month and 1000gp per level of the spell, the mage can create a wand that contains multiple charges of that spell. A wand can be made for any spell of level 5 or lower. When the initial preparation is complete, there is, however a chance the creation will fail. The caster must roll his INT ability score, minus the level of the spell, or less on a 20 to succeed, or his time and money are wasted. Once the initial enchantment has succeeded, he has a window to add charges to the wand. He can add charges for a number of days equal to his INT score. Each day he can add a number of charges equal to the number of times he can prepare the level of spell contained in the wand. At the end of the charging window, the wand is completed and no more charges can be added, ever. When all the charges in a wand are used up, the wand crumbles to dust.

For example, if Titus Thunder, a 7th level magic-user with INT of 15, wants to create a wand of invisibility (level 2), he spends 2 months and 2000gp to prepare the wand. Then, he must roll 15 (INT) minus 2 (2nd level spell) =13 or less on 1d20 to have successfully made the wand. Assuming he succeeds, he then can add 3 charges per day (number of 2nd level spells he can prepare per day) for 15 days (INT), at the end of which time he has a wand with 45 charges.

It also can duplicate the effects of any spell (magic-user or cleric) of levels 1-4. Any sort of thing might be wished for within the time frame, but the Demon of Wishes does not like greed or grand ambitions, so the bigger the wish, the more likely that the wish's wording will be interpreted in a hyper-literal and inconvenient fashion. The caster must say "I wish..." when casting the spell, and there is no backsies, retconning or mind-changing, the first phrase uttered by the PLAYER is the wish.

Mass Charm (MU-7)

Casting Time : 1 action

Target/AOE: 30-HD of creatures

Realm: Enchantment

Range: 60'

Duration: Special

The charm lasts for 30 days, minus the INT of the victim, at which time the victim can attempt another saving throw to escape the charm or it lasts another like period of time until another save can be attempted. When freed from the charm, the victim will realize what has happened and will hold a grudge.

This spell is particularly effective when cast by a Chaotic-aligned magic-user against Orcs, Half-orcs, Goblins or Hobgoblins. The spell will work on up to 100 of these creatures within 120' of the caster and they do not get a saving throw.

If one person breaks the spell, he breaks it only for himself, not for all under the spell, except the caster, if he breaks the spell, it is broken for all. It is common, therefore, for summoners to protect themselves with a Circle of Protection and to surround the spot where the demons will appear with a Circle of Protection as well. The hope is the confined demons will consent to make a bargain to be released. Any spell resistance that a demon has is not effective against this spell.

It would be very unwise to travel there without a second casting prepared, or at least a scroll or spell book with you, or else you can't get back. The caster does not need to make an attack roll, but the target does get a Saving Throw to avoid the attack. If the target fails the saving throw, it becomes the permanent slave of the caster, unless the spell is dispelled or caster killed. If the enslaved creature is commanded to kill itself, it may attempt a second saving throw before doing so, otherwise it obeys all commands.

Permanent (MU-8)

Casting Time : 1 hour

Realm: Magic Art

Save: See below

Range: 120'

Target/AOE: 1 spell

Duration: Permanent

This hour-long ritual will make whatever spell that the caster next casts have a permanent duration. For example, a Charm Person would keep the victim charmed forever, unless dispelled, or a Wall of Fire would stay in place forever. The duration of the spell made permanent cannot be "Immediate." This spell is not necessary to make permanent magic items. A scroll, however, can be made "permanent" allowing it to be used 1 time each day. Putting a Permanent spell on a Gate spell opens a permanent portal to some extra-worldly place allowing beings to pass through it at will. Casting permanent spell has a price, first it requires 1000gp worth of powdered diamonds which are expended by the spell, second, the caster must make a saving throw or he will lose 1 point from a random ability score (permanently).

Casting Time : 1 hour

Save: Yes

Target/AOE: 1 person

Duration: Immediate

This horrific ritual slays a living person and immediately transforms them into an undead being. If the caster uses the spell on himself, he will become a lich, with all the powers and immunities of that sort of creature. He, however, loses 1d4 levels of magic-user abilities in the process and becomes Chaotic in alignment. If used on a captive, the victim gets a saving throw to avoid undeath, with Lawfully aligned characters getting a +4 on the save. A captive of 3-HD or less is transformed into a ghoul, 4-6 HD into a wight, 7-8 HD into a wraith, 9-10 HD into a specter or knight of the damned, and 11+ HD into a vampire. The undead that rises does not necessarily obey the caster of the spell, but the caster is likely to be able to use some other magic to achieve that. The lich transformation requires 10,000gp in arcane materials, the other transformations 500gp per HD of the undead that results. This spell is irreversible except by the gods themselves, and maybe not even them.

Wish (MU-9)

Casting Time : 1 action

Realm: Knowledge

Save: No

Range: special

Target/AOE: special

Duration: Varies

This spell can change an event from the last year, e.g., cause a failed saving throw to pass or a passed saving throw to fail, or in the next year, e.g. arriving at the palace before the assassins do. It also can duplicate the effects of any spell (magic-user or cleric) of levels 1-6. The wish can also be used to create or summon any object worth 1500gp or less (includes most potions and scrolls). Any sort of other things might be wished for, but the Demon of Wishes does not like greed or grand ambitions, so the bigger the wish, the more likely that the wish's wording will be interpreted in a hyper-literal and inconvenient fashion. The caster must say "I wish..." when casting the spell, and there is no backsies, retconning or mind-changing, the first phrase uttered by the PLAYER is the wish.
