The Pirate Bastards decide to explore the lost island listed on the treasure map taken from the Blue Oyster Cult. They reach the island, known only as Ceniza Cay to those who whisper of it. It is absent from every known chart save for a singular, tattered map taken from the sinister undersea cult. It is a place wreathed in superstition, surrounded by reefs like a maw of jagged teeth, and perpetually veiled in mist, as though the sea itself wishes to obscure it. The waters surrounding it are unnaturally warm, the fish found there pale and eyeless, as if they had never known the sun.

The map points toward the center of the mist-shrouded island, but an odd cave catches their eye. It appears to be deep enough to sail the El Diablo into, and a crashed ship pokes at an angle out of the left side of the cliff face. A small rowboat sits to the right tied to the cliff. High atop the cliff is a crude hut.

The Pirate Bastards sneak in through the break in the right side of the cliff. They hear dogs ahead, who bark at their approach. They are caught in a hail of gunfire from throughout the cavern. The Pirate Bastards try to escape, but they are almost caught by a Coral Shoggoth.

The Pirate Bastards find their old friend Chungus deep within the complex. The Diablo are attacked by two Coral Shoggoths. In the fighting, Stowe lost an arm. Five spanish soldiers were killed, but four of them got better. Chungus was destroyed. Two spanish were unrepairable slain by the two Coral Shoggoth. Polly the magic parrot becomes Teeg's companion. The Pirate Bastards are able to capture The Cat's Paw - a Sloop.
